Why instructor-led training?

Flexible scheduling

Book private training at your convenience or invite users to take public classes mapped to their role and desired skill set

Interactive experience

Learners can get clarification and feedback in real time from their expert instructor while getting to know peers in similar roles

Practical, hands-on guidance

By working through real-life scenarios, demos and exercises, learners will gain confidence that they are using Collibra correctly

“Exceptional presentation. I had multiple other participants contacting me privately to praise the trainer. Good energy, excellent balance of understanding and responding to questions that arose from stakeholders during the meeting while curtailing too-deep technical discussions.”

Collibra customer

“We got some good practice, including immediately afterward when we regrouped internally to discuss what we’d seen and how we might set it up for our needs. Because we still had access (to our training instance), we were able to test-drive our plans a bit. That was very helpful.”
